Problem Statement

Veterans often struggle with finding a civilian job after leaving the military. Many of them went into the military right after high school and have never gone through the process of getting a job, or if they have it has been many years. Veterans develop a lot of skills and may have accrued awards, during their time in the military. Civilians who have never been in the military might not understand the military terminology.

Assumptions

- The system will be in some form of competition by April.
 - Dev Team, FGCU Seniors, graduate.
- The VA will want the developed system.
- Veterans want help getting new jobs.
- Civilians want to hire veterans.
